Running the Mill.

To the Editor of THE PROGRESS.

DEAR SIR: I see by the remarks made by your Spencerville correspondent that there is some misunderstanding as to my running the mill each year for a definite time. I thought that I made it plain at the public meeting that I would agree to run it at least one-quarter time; and I now say again that I have no objection to having a clause put into the agreement or mortgage to that effect.

Our desire is to have the ratepayers fully secured for the loan in every respect, and our purpose is to place the ratepayers where they should have been when they first gave a bonus to the mill; and we trust that they will give this matter a fair consideration, and look at it from an impartial business point of view.

We further ask that if the By-law does get the legal assent of the ratepayers that we will be at once able to complete the agreement, so that we can have the mill running as soon as the new crop comes in to market. We further state that there will be no delay on our part.

Trusting that all parties are in earnest in their actions in this matter, I remain,

Yours truly,

DAVID MOORE.

Dauphin, July 15th, 1899.

Starr's Point.

The school here closed on June 30th. The Mission Band which is conducted by the children held its meeting in the morning. The children, after reading the minutes of last meeting which showed their society to be prospering, gave a short programme. It was arranged that dinner was not to be eaten as usual, but was to be partaken of picnic fashion. The children seemed to thoroughly enjoy both it and the races and games they indulged in afterwards. May and Nellie Bailey and Beatrice Cates had a great deal of amusement over a slow race, the three little girls coming in even. As rain threatened the picnic and school broke up early, the latter to re-assemble August 14th.

The following is the standing of the pupils who are working very much better in consequence of the new school, but who had scarcely fair play during examinations, several being absent through part or all of the week. Much better success is hoped for in December.

Hail.

A narrow strip of hail fell across a portion of the settlement of Stony Plain on Saturday. A few farmers' crops were injured, but as far as we can learn the damage was not very great. Another and more extensive storm, however, took place on the following Monday, with more serious results. About twelve farmers along the Sturgeon, west of St. Albert, in the St. Peter's settlement, and in the vicinity of the Pareotte school, were hailed out, some having their crops completely ruined.
One of the sufferers was a settler named Laroque. Other victims were J. O'Donnell, Beltrive and E.
J. McMillan, whose crops were injured. The stones were of unusual size and fell with great force. The storm travelled northeast by east, and seemed about at St. Albert, losing part of its force, though one wing travelled on towards the Fort, doing considerable damage as it went. T. G. Ross had his garden and crop badly injured and crops of several other settlers in his vicinity were more or less damaged.
Fortunately the strip was only narrow and the damage was not very general. It is reported that 200 panes of glass were broken in the St. Albert mission.—Edmonton Bulletin.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND

RATE RAISED FROM 3 TO 3-1/2, AND TO 4-1/2 ON SHORT LOANS.

The Bank Reserves Since June 21 Have Declined to the Amount of Nearly $4,500,000.

London, July 13.—The Statistician's article on the money outlook today will say: "The Bank of England has raised the bank rate from 3 to 3 1/2 per cent and to 4 1/2 per cent for short advances. There was some question whether the general rate should be put up to four, but it was finally decided that an advance of 1/2 per cent would be sufficient for the present."

"This step was practically forced upon the bank by further heavy reductions in the reserves of the New York banks from $9,000,000 sterling to $1,000,000 sterling. This reduction not only made further gold shipments from the United States out of the question, but brought London to face the possibility of New York taking money from Europe as soon as the wheat begins to move freely."

"The continued outflow of cash into the country, the French competition for gold in the London market, the inability of the Bank of England to obtain gold in the London market, the inability of the Bank of England to obtain gold abroad to a greater extent than is necessary to meet interior requirements, and the inability of taking gold away if she requires the additional sums for protection. The bank reserves since June 21 have declined by about $4,500,000."

"Will the present rate have to be further advanced is the question? Last year the reserve stood at more than $25,000,000. Then we were calling in money from Germany, and the United States was taking payment for wheat and cotton largely in securities. This year we have no balances in Germany and may be unable to pay the United States by selling stocks. Hence we must be prepared either to offer a discount rate sufficiently high to induce American banks to keep balances on this side or to send gold in payment for produce. We may consequently witness a five per cent rate here and a higher rate in Germany than last year."

The Westminster Gazette this afternoon says: "A call of £1,250,000 will fall due next Monday for payment on the Japanese loan and on various other issues of liabilities."

Loaded Cartridges.

Rochester, N. Y., July 14.—During a performance at Sunnyside on Lake Ontario last night the Tuscarora Indians, who have been giving a "wild west" entertainment there during the week, fired into the crowd that had assembled watching their antics and wounded three people. That part of the programme, during which the Indians fire on a log cabin and are fired on by the occupants, was carried out without a hitch, but when the cabin was fired and the whites were obliged to fight the attacking party in the open, the trouble began.

Suddenly Miss Williamson uttered a scream and fell to the ground. Another man named Norrell, went down before another charge from a gun. In the hands of the Indians, then young Raymond Brothock toppled over. Much excitement prevailed for the space of a few minutes.

None of the injured are seriously hurt, but the wounds are extremely painful. The shooting was entirely accidental, loaded cartridges becoming mixed by mistake with the regular blanks used at the performance. No arrests were made.

Four Men Injured.

Markdale, Ont., July 16.—This afternoon at a barn raising on the premises of William Douglas, adjoining this village, the first bent had been raised, but, owing to insufficient propping, it came crashing down, crushing four men, probably in two or three cases fatally. Duncan McIntyre had a broken collar bone, shoulder bruised and chest hurt internally. When found, almost the entire weight of the bent was resting on his chest. Henry McLaughlin had several ribs broken, his injured and sustained severe internal injuries. Fred Brown, a severe blow on the head with probable injury to brain which may prove fatal. A man named Palmer had a severe cut on the side of the head.

Foundry Burned.

Hamilton, July 16.—Fire did about $20,000 or $25,000 damage to the manufacturing establishment of Messrs. Burrow, Stewart and Milne this evening and threw 200 employees out of work. The three manufactured stores, ranges and hot air furnaces, scales, malleables, etc. The blaze was first seen about 6:40 in the top story of the scale shop on Cannon street, about the middle building. The origin is not known. Four hours' work was required to get the fire under control. The big stock was largely saved. The structures were insured in nearly a dozen companies, and the loss is fully covered.

THE AORANGI ARRIVES.

An Important Decision in Regard to Mating Claims in Atlin.

Victoria, B. C., July 16.—The Australian liner Aorangi, from Sydney, 20th June, and Honolulu 6th July, arrived last evening well filled with passengers and with a large general cargo. The trip was uneventful. The other two ships of the line were sighted on their way to Australia, the Mowroa on 23rd June and the Warrina on mid-night of 6th July.

Arthur Hawkins, said to be a son of the celebrated English judge, died in the police cells yesterday morning a victim of alcoholism. He has been many years resident in the province.

Robert Henry Brown died here yesterday after an illness of a few weeks. He was pioneer of this province coming from England in the early fifties.

In 1858 he engaged in mining on the Fraser river and, in 1870, he became superintendent of the Lake Kuntz Mining company. He leaves a widow.

J. R. Brennan, of Westminster, who arrived from the north by the steamer Alpha, left Atlin, on July 5th. Two hours before he started Mr. Justice Irvine gave an important decision on a Pine creek case. Miller and McLaren, the lawyers, had asked under the impression that Atlin was in the North-west and they therefore claimed 1,000 feet of the ground. Mr. Justice Irvine decided that as Atlin was in British Columbia the laws of this province must apply and therefore Miller and McLaren, his partner, are only entitled to 200 feet.

Mr. Brennan says that the lieutenant-governor had not left Atlin for the coast on July 5, and the news of the trouble in the cabinet was not known till the Alpha met the Tees some distance from Skagway on July 8th.

Injunction and $100 Damages.

Toronto, July 16.—At Ogodeh last yesterday morning Dr. Snider sued Dr. McKelvie for an injunction and damages. On December 18th, 1897, Dr. Snider bought a practice and good will in Brussels from Dr. McKelvie for $2,100, the latter signing an agreement not to practice within five miles for five years. Dr. Snider found, he broke his agreement and sued. Judge Robertson granted an injunction and $100 damages.

Hon. W. B. Ives Dying.

Ottawa, July 15.—Hon. W. B. Ives, who was stricken with paralysis on a C. P. R. train while en route home from British Columbia, is very low. At 2:30 this morning Mr. Ives was very weak and sinking. He may live two or three hours or the any moment.

Grasshopper Clouds.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 16.—A special from Duluth says: Reports were received here yesterday by grain men that vast clouds of grasshoppers alighted on the fields in the vicinity of Rolla, N. D.

Odessa, July 16.—Four ironclads and a flotilla of torpedo boats have started for Batoum to convey the remains of the Czar with to Sebastopol.

Perth, Ausb., N. J., July 16.—The Malheur County bank closed its doors today. Edward M. Valentine, the cashier is missing. There is possibly $100,000 short.

Berlin, Ont., July 16.—John Klein, in the act of crossing the track in the Grand Trunk yards here yesterday, was caught between two cars which were being shunted and was crushed to death.

The PRESS EXCURSION

Ten o'clock found us inside the Dominion Government's Experimental Farm at Agassiz, where the train halted a few minutes and baskets of flowers were handed round among the ladies of the party, by the farm officials, who were warmly thanked for them.

But we were bound for the land of Uncle Sam, and turning southward at Mission Junction were soon at Huntington, where the Union Jack flew on one side of the street, and the Stars and Stripes on the other. A brief delay here on account of the "tariff wall," that vile contrivance of modern civilization and international crime, and we again went howling along in true Yankee style, towards Seattle, the commercial metropolis of the state of Washington, and one of the most energetic, thriving, and go-ahead cities in the United States.

Preparations had been made for our visit, and soon as we arrived the electric cars were ready for us, and getting in we were run up to the top of Queen Anne's hill, whence an excellent view of the city and district can be obtained.

The prospect was very fine. In front was the busy, bustling city. Far in the distance the lofty ranges of the Cascade and Olympic Mountains, and near by the glistening waters of Puget Sound. A banquet given in the evening in Madison Park Pavilion, when brief speeches were made by some of the principal men of the city, and replied to by President Scott, and Mr. T. A. Bell of our own party.

An elaborate and complete programme had been arranged, but the train was several hours late, and the reception could not be carried out as intended.

The next day was Sunday, and as it was the only opportunity we had of going to church in the United States, we embraced it, and attended Trinity Methodist church. It is a large and beautiful building, very fine inside.

There was a very large congregation. The music and singing were good. The sermon, which by the way was by an Englishman in the absence of the regular pastor, we did not think much of. We thought he "threw on" too much.

But the people did not forget the Apostle's injunction about entertaining strangers, and treated us very courteously indeed.

We were to leave Seattle by the train for Tacoma that afternoon. Two gentlemen, whose names we cannot place just now, had come up to welcome and escort us down to the coast. The train was late, and the elaborate preparations that had been made for our entertainment, had in great measure to be forgone. But we were most courteously received, and every possible attention shown in the all too brief time we were to spend in the city.

The train was late, and the elaborate preparations that had been made for our entertainment, had in great measure to be forgone. But we were most courteously received, and every possible attention shown in the all too brief time we were to spend in the city.

But the people did not forget the Apostle's injunction about entertaining strangers, and treated us very courteously indeed.

We were to leave Seattle by the train for Tacoma that afternoon. Two gentlemen, whose names we cannot place just now, had come up to welcome and escort us down to the coast. walls, and everything done to make the guests welcome. After the banquet an exceedingly able and interesting speech was delivered by H. W. Scott, editor of the "Oregonian," which we hope to be able to republish at some future time for the information of our readers. Other speeches were made by the president of the Canadian Press Association, Vice-President Chapman, British Consul Ludlow and others.

In the evening a grand reception was held in the parlors of the Portland hotel, at which the wealth, wit, and beauty of the city were present. Space will not permit a description further than that everything was done to make the occasion as pleasant and enjoyable as possible. The train was to leave for sea the about midnight, and we had to be once more on the move. Quite a number came down to see us off and say good bye. The visit to Portland will not soon be forgotten by those who were there. The people of that city may be republican in their form of government, but they are royal in their court and hospitality.

Next morning found us in Seattle expecting to reach Victoria that afternoon. But by some misfortune the Dominion government steamer, Quadra, which was to have taken us up, did not arrive until next morning at 8 o'clock. When it did come we were soon on board, and speeding through the blue waters of Puget Sound. As we crossed the "line" all hands assembled on deck and sang "God Save the Queen," and gave three hearty cheers for the flag that's braved a thousand years.

About 5 p.m. we arrived alongside the dock in Victoria, B.C., and cordial welcome was extended on behalf of the city by Mayor Keffer. Arrangements had been made for us to visit the naval station at Esquimalt, and we were soon in the street cars and howling along for that noted spot. At the dock, boats from Her Majesty's Cruiser, "Phaeton," were sent for our accommodation, and we were quickly transferred to the big man of war, and shown around by those detailed for the purpose. There were ten large quick firing guns, half a dozen Nordenfolt machine guns, 100 shots per minute and many other death dealing implements of destruction.

Victoria is a pretty place, just such a place as one would like to live in. The scenery is very fine. Many of the residences are quaint and antique looking, much like in England. The new parliament building is among the finest legislative halls on the continent, and contains the best museum we had seen.

Next morning we were again on board the Quadra, and off for Vancouver. What a glorious trip through the Straits of San Juan and the Gulf of Georgia! It was like a trip through fairyland. We scarcely need to say anything about Vancouver. Perhaps no city in America has had so much said and written about it. And yet without reason. It has every advantage to make it one of the great cities of the world in a future. An excellent site. A harbor equal to all demands. The terminus of one of the greatest railroads in the world. Advantages situated for all eastern and a great western trade. Rich mines within easy distance. The finest timber we ever saw anywhere. What more could be wanted, but men to utilize all these. And now two are coming fast. Building was going on in all directions, and yet not an empty house to be had.

We were met at the dock by representatives of the city and taken for a drive around Stanley Park. The prospect was simply magnificent and unsurpassed. We need say no more. Upon arriving at Trail, a stop of a few minutes was made to allow us a brief time to see the great Smelting works there. The works are on a grand scale and must have cost a great deal of money. Huge pits in which the ore was being treated, were sending out clouds of smoke, laden with the smell of coke and sulphur. One of the party remarked that "it smelt like — an unmentionable place. Then off again for Rossland, part of which we could see away up in the clouds. The grade soon after leaving Trail is one foot for twenty, and the road winds round up in itself so that in places two tracks could be seen below the one on which we were travelling. Six miles as the crow flies requires 12 miles of road, with a rise of about 2500 feet in that distance. It was rather late in the evening when we reached the mountain city. Rossland is a remarkable instance of the rise and growth of mining cities. Four or five years ago a few miner's shacks, today a city of 8,500 inhabitants, good buildings, fine streets, electric lights, and a general air of permanency as well as go-ahead-itativeness. It is a city high up in the world, far above the ordinary tide of civilization. It is progressive and prosperous, and its people good specimens of the free western type. A meeting was arranged for and took place on the depot station platform before the train was to leave, and addresses were delivered by the mayor and ex-Lieutenant Governor Mackintosh of the province, and suitably replied to by President Scott. Our time at Rossland was all too limited to permit of gaining as much information as we would like to have done, but everything looked prosperous and progressive, and the people in good spirits—the best test of good times.

A B. C. LOAN FLOATED

B.C. CREDIT IS VERY GOOD IN THE LONDON MARKET.

Fourteen Months for Stabling—Baptist Convention Closed—A Railway Deadlock.

Vancouver, B. C., July 13.—British Columbia has just floated successfully in London a loan of £240,000 ($1,700,000) at a fraction over 96. This is most satisfactory, being more than one per cent higher than the best price obtained for any previous loan. The province's credit is very good. Notwithstanding the taking of some taxes last year the revenue for the fiscal year was over $1,500,000 or the largest ever known, and nearly double what it was four years ago.

Charles Teague, who grievously stabbed two men at Shal Bay recently, was given fourteen months yesterday.

The B. C. Baptist convention closed last night after having held a most successful meeting.

It is reported from Nelson that the decision of the railway committee of the privy council to grant the Kootenay Valley road running powers over the Crown's West Pass road, has not so far affected the local situation. The deadlock still continues. The arrangement will be remembered as that in consideration of a yearly rent of a $175 a mile, the Kootenay Valley road was to have running powers for ten years over eight and one-half miles of road, two years' notice being necessary for the termination of the lease. The trouble now is the place the Kootenay Valley road has chosen to join on to the Crown's West Pass road after crossing the International boundary line.

BIG BREEZE AT MANITOUL.

Skating and Curling Rinks and Agricultural Hall Completely Destroyed.

Winnipeg, July 13.—Passengers arriving today from Manitou bring news of a big rain and wind storm, which struck that town and surrounding country last night about 10 o'clock. Although no persons so far as is known, received any injury, the skating and curling rinks and the agricultural hall were completely destroyed, while Twohey's grocery store were blown in. While the fury of the storm seems to have centered particularly in these structures, scarcely a dwelling escaped, panes of glass in many of them being broken. It has not yet been ascertained what damage was done to the crop, but it is certain they could not have escaped altogether. A slight hail accompanied the rain but it is thought that it was not in sufficient quantity to effect serious injury.

Queensland's Offer Accepted.

London, July 13.—The British government replying to the offer of the government of Queensland to send 250 volunteers and a machine gun to South Africa in the event of war between Great Britain and the Transvaal has expressed the hope that the occasion will not arise, adding that if it does the government will gladly avail itself of this patriotic offer.

$1,000 Fire at Neepawa.

Neepawa, Man., July 13.—Phil Gosling's large livery stable was burned down last night, the horses and summer rigs were saved, but the cutters, considerable hay and other contents were destroyed. The total loss is said to be $1,000, with very little insurance. The origin of the first is a mystery.

THE TRANSVAAL TROUBLE

To the close observer of affairs in far off South Africa there can be but one end to all the trouble and turmoil caused by the boorish actions of the stubborn Paul Kruger and his followers the Boers. Their dream of independence can be but a dream to be rudely destroyed by the British when the time is ripe for a confederation of South African possessions. "What we have we'll hold" is the motto the British have held throughout the present century and show no signs of abandoning at the present date.

The representations of the Outlanders have been received with a willing ear by Hon. Joseph Chamberlain and in colonial affairs he will seem to prevail with the Imperial government. It is evident that Oan Paul is being urged to the stand he has taken by some outside influence and this influence is now said to be Dr. Leyds, the European representative of the Transvaal. Kruger is being led to believe that if he does but promiscinate for a time new issues will arise to weaken British influence and thus save the Transvaal from final conquest. The steady and rapid impinging of troops into South Africa and the unanimous feeling of the British Empire against the unjust treatment of the Outlanders by the Boers should and would warn any other leader than the narrow-minded, self-sufficient and tricky Kruger.

That the reforms demanded will be obtained goes without saying but it remains to be seen whether Paul Kruger will back down before war or afterward.

NOTES.

Commercial Travellers.

With a view to obtaining for commercial travellers, when on the road, the board of directors of the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association propose compiling and publishing a list of the hotels throughout the Dominion of Canada to which its members will be recommended. To this end the board is now sending to every hotel proprietor a circular letter enclosed with which is a series of questions with regard to accommodation, rates, sanitation, etc., of each hotel. The answers to these questions will be examined by a special committee composed of members of the association who visit the different sections where the hotels are situated, and if found satisfactory such hotels will be placed on the recommended list.

The Quaker Dunkards.

The Dunkards are one of the most peculiar religious sects in the country. Their name is properly Dunkers and is derived from the German word "trunk," to dip. They are also called Tumbler from their method of baptism, which is to put the person, while kneeling, head first under the water. The sect was founded in Germany in the seventeenth century, but its members were persecuted and in 1725 accepted an invitation from William Penn to settle in Pennsylvania. They live largely in communities and follow somewhat closely the customs of the Quakers in regard to dress.

They never engage in lawsuits, take no oaths and no active part in politics. They do not believe in war, and divorce is unknown among them. Twice a year each congregation has a love feast, in which the members wash each other's feet and salute each other with the kiss of fellowship, men kissing men, and women women. Until recently the taking of interest for money loaned was not allowed among them. They are an agricultural people, and as Pennsylvania and the other eastern states have become more thickly settled the Dunkards have gradually removed to more western states.

Helen in the Old Days.

A little group of old timers were talking about the palmy days of wide open gambling in New Orleans. "It used to be pretty lively, I admit," said one of the veterans, "but the only sure enough Monte Carlo this country ever saw was out in Montana. I'll never forget the first time I struck Helen. It's a good sized, handsome city, and I took a stroll down the main street looking at the stores. Pretty soon I was struck cold by a monster sign of 'Licensed Gambling House' right over the door of one of the finest places in town.

"In less than a block I ran across a dozen other signs of the same kind, and then I began to ask questions. I found that the law required all gaming places to put up such boards. They had to be 15 feet long and 2 feet wide, with plain white letters on a black ground. The original bill didn't specify the size, so some of the houses had signs made about half an inch long that you'd need a microscope to read, and that's why the particulars were laid down so exactly. The gambling shops were sandwiched right in between groceries and shoe stores, and one of 'em was next door to a church. It looked funny, I tell you."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Wonderful Hairdressing.

Hairdressing in Zululand is an important feature, both to the bride and bridegroom, and the attention paid to the coiffure of the bride would alone insure the performance of a west end hairdresser who arranges a bride's locks and fastens the orange blossom chaplet.

A cone shaped erection, for instance, is the lawful coiffure of a Zulu wife, and this cannot be legally worn till the marriage rites are duly completed. Save for the all important cone, the head of a Zulu bride is closely shaved, an asagai being used for the purpose, while as soon as a youth is of marriageable age his head is shorn to leave a ring around the scalp and then liberally be-dressed with fat and ochre, without which an uncircumcised Zulu would feel fittingly decorated for his bride.

When the bridegroom elopes has been shorn of all his hair save the wool on the crown, which is trained in a circular shape and some four inches in diameter, a ring is sewed to this gun and charcoal. In this the Zulu thrusts long snuff spoons, needles and small utility articles and is very proud of his hair, which is the badge of manhood.—Cassell's Magazine.

A Conscientious Sentry.

Washington, learning that the colored sentry could not be trusted, went out one night to ascertain if the report was correct. The counter-sentry was "Charmbridge," and the general, disguised as he thought, by a large overcoat, approached a colored sentry.

"Who goes there?" cried the sentry.

"A friend," replied Washington.

"Friend, advance, unarmed, and give the counter-sentry," said the colored man.

Washington came up and said, "Roxbury."

"No, sah!" was the response.

"Medford," said Washington.

"No, sah!" returned the colored soldier.

"Charleston," said Washington.

The colored man immediately exclaimed, "I tell you, Massa Washington, no man go by here 'out he say 'Cambridge'!"

A Dutiful Little Girl.

"Such a lot of people live in our house," she told me, "17 of us; two ladies live in the cellars." And her mother always went once a week to call on a lady who lived in the "workhouse."

"These in father calls mother such wicked names," she suddenly informed me one day, and yet some string of disrespectful words.

"I don't mind it," I interrupted, "you mustn't let me hear these things."

"These in, he does," she persisted, "and we all want father to die, if mother don't give to pay for the coffin."

"Mrs. Fennell's," said a Paleist in Eastern France.

The Outlook for Cattle.

Experienced cattlemen are generally of opinion that the prospects for good cattle are very bright indeed. At the present moment better prices are being realized than for many years, and as there is a serious shortage of cattle in the United States owing to many ranchers having given up breeding, there is a possibility that cattle will be considerably dearer before next winter.

From the dearth of cattle in the States it would look as if American cattlemen of the central and middle-western states have been imprudent enough to go out of breeding altogether and have trusted almost entirely to the fattening of young stock, while the southern states, which naturally supplied the young stock for the northern ranges, are unable to do so this year. It is reported that American cattlemen have been compelled to look to Canada for their young stock, though at the present prices paid for young stock they cannot expect to realize a very large profit.

It may therefore be safely assumed that good prices for North-west cattle are likely to continue for some time, and that female stock should be more valuable than it ever was. For these reasons the breeding should be carefully looked after and the quality improved by the procuring of the best bulls obtainable. When the glut comes, as it must come eventually, quality will be a big factor in securing the best market. The best cattle are cheapest in the long run.

PETROLEUM IN ATHABASCA.

In the house Friday, 14th, in connection with a vote of $3,000 for completing the artesian well borings in the Athabasca district for petroleum, the minister of the interior said that he did not think he would take another vote for this purpose if no new information was secured. He thought the utility of the work was more or less doubtful.

ARTESIAN WELLS IN N. W. T.

Mr. Davin said there were vast districts in the Northwest utterly destitute as regards water and he urged that the government should take steps to ascertain whether water could be found in these areas. The minister said he was in sympathy with the proposal and stated he hoped that with the completion of the work of the irrigation commission he would by next session be able to place an intelligent scheme in this connection. He added that boring machines had already been given to the local government for the purpose of well-boring and these were to be supplemented this year by five new ones.

EDUCATING INDIANS.

On the Indian vote the minister of the interior explained his own views upon Indian education. He said he believed steps should be taken to extend the system of education on a basis of boarding schools rather than day or industrial schools. The weakness in day schools was that they did not remove the Indian children from the degrading influences that surrounded them. With regard to industrial schools he considered it was premature to expect to make of the present Indians mechanics able to compete with white men. The best evidence of this was the fact that those in charge of the schools were not disposed to allow the Indians to leave even after they had reached an age at which they would be able, if ever, to make a living for themselves. Moreover, the system was an extremely expensive one. If the same amount was expended in boarding schools and a reasonable amount of education be given to a larger number the results would be more satisfactory. The minister said that in the administration of his department he did not propose to render gratuitous the large amount of money expended on industrial schools, but in cases where there was necessity for the extension of the system he was carrying it out on the idea he had enunciated.

NEGOTIABLE SCRIP.

The minister of the interior made an explanation of the report that scrip was being issued to half-breeds in the Northwest and Athabasca payable to the bearer instead of being payable as promised to the order of the individual receiving it. Some charges the minister announced that scrip would be issued so that it could not be transferred except by assignment. This was intended to protect half-breeds as much as possible from scrip speculators. The provision would entirely prevent the immediate sale of scrip issued to minors, assignments signed by them of course not being legal until they were of age.

The Indian and half-breed commissioners at a joint meeting recently decided that it was necessary that scrip should be used in the old form, that is payable to the bearer. The reason was that the half-breeds were determined to realize on their own scrip and that of their children at once, and that speculators were buying scrip from them but using a new form to reduce the amount they would give for it. On this fact and the consequent feeling it engendered the two commissioners based their decision. The Indian commissioners now in the Athabasca country making treaties with the Indians for a formal cession of that country and the half-breed commissioners discussing scrip to half-breeds therein in extinguishment of their aboriginal title. As the half-breeds have great influence with the Indians it was felt important that they should be satisfied because it is necessary that treaties with Indians should be completed at once, the Indians manifesting considerable restlessness at the number of whites entering their country without treaties having been made. The Indian and half-breed commissioners undertook to issue scrip payable to the bearer and have so notified the minister. Their decision they backed up with a letter of endorsement from Father Lacombe, the well known missionary, who in the past has strongly opposed the issue of negotiable scrip.

The two commissioners are now far in the north country and will not likely be heard from till fall. In view of this the minister stated that apparently the government would be bound to recognize "bearer" scrip issued in the Athabasca district. The question as to the issue in the older parts of the west would be recommended.

School Hours on the Yukon.

Miss Anna Falconer, in an article in the "Century Magazine," has given to the public a singularly interesting narrative of her school-keeping experiences in Circle City, on the Yukon. Schoolhouse, scholars and school methods were all old enough, but perhaps nothing else strikes the reader as quite so queer as the school hours in that far-away region of the north.

During the short winter days, says Miss Falconer, it would often be noon before all the children put in an appearance. When I arrived at nine o'clock it would either be dark or brilliant moonlight. Smoke might be seen lazily rising from four or five cabins out of the four or five hundred. I would light me a lamp and wait.

By ten o'clock a few children would struggle sleepily in, by eleven day began to dawn. By eleven o'clock, shortly after sunrise, the majority of the children were at school, some coming without their breakfasts. By half-past twelve all who were coming that day would have appeared. It was hard to get up before daylight on these cold, dark mornings.

It was necessary to light the lamps at half-past one, which was trying to the eyes, as we could not get enough lamps to light the large room. The children would crowd about the lamps, sitting on the floor, platform and seats.

A visitor might get the impression that there was little order in the school, but strict order was a necessity. Perhaps one reason why I liked the school so much was because it kept me so busy. Recess was limited, in order to make up for the darkness of the morning.

At half-past three fifteen or twenty of the little ones were sent home. If it was moonlight, they would race away noisily over the snow. If it was dark, the impatient ones would take my hand and whisper, "Please, I want to go with you."

Most of the children were so used to the dark that they did not mind it much. The majority of the nights, though, were filled with glooms in which it seemed to me that for days at a time the moon never set. It would shine through the day about as bright as the weak, pale sun. For a couple of weeks the sun would slowly rise in the south, then slowly descend, its lower rim alone touching the horizon, and then drop suddenly out of sight.

When at length the days grew longer and sunbeams began to stream on the school room windows, the children greeted them with shouts of welcome, fairly dancing with delight, and running to the window to lay the cold little hands in the warmth and brightness.

The following from an exchange is worth preserving:—If a splinter has been driven into a child's hand it can be extracted with steam. Near a fire a wide-mouthed bottle with very hot water, place the injured part over the mouth and press slightly. The suction thus produced will draw the flesh down, and in a minute or two the steam will extract the splinter and inflammation together.

A country school teacher received the following note of caution from the anxious mother of one of her pupils: "Dear Miss,—Please do not push Johnnie too hard, for so much of his brain is intellect, that he ought to be held back a good deal, or he will run to intellect entirely, and I do not desire it. So please hold him back so as to keep his intellect from getting bigger than his body, and injuring him for life."

I was induced to try South American Rheumatic Cure. Inside of 12 hours after I had taken the first dose the pain had all left me—three bottles cured me—and today I am as nimble as a school boy."
